AMBASSADOR O'BRIEN'S TRIP PLANNED WEEKS AGO

"Ambassador O'Brien, who is reported leaving Japan for Washington on the Mongolia, planned his present trip many weeks ago," said Dr. Thos. Green, the lecturer, yesterday. "I was with the Ambassador several weeks while in Tokio and on that occasion and also at the Memorial Day services on May 30, at Yokohama, where I delivered the oration. Mr. O'Brien told me of this trip. His wife had gone to Brussels, via Siberia, to visit their married daughter, and from there she would go to Washington. It was planned that the Ambassador and his wife should meet in Washington. "So, after all, there is nothing really significant in his departure for Washington, about the time it is announced the Japanese Ambassador at Washington is leaving for Tokio. It is merely a coincidence, that is all."

Dr. Green, is one of the best known lecturers of America today. He is detained in Honolulu at present while his wife is convalescing from the injuries she received in the Quinn auto accident the night the Chiyo Maru was in port. Dr. and Mrs. Green now plan to resume their trip to the Coast on the next Tenyo Maru. Dr. Green will give the Fourth of July address at Central Union church next Sunday evening. He is a finished speaker, his address at St. Andrew's Cathedral on Sunday evening being exceptionally fine.

ERICSSON RELICS SHOWN AT SEATTLE

SEATTLE, June 15.—John Ericsson, inventor of the famous "cheese box" Monitor, used a large block of wood as a pillow on which to rest his tired head after spending days and nights in his study. The identical block has been kept as a historical object, and is to be seen among other things in the "John Ericsson" room in the Swedish building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

As the visitor enters the room he is almost startled to see seated at a table at the farther end the figure of a man. So amazing is the likeness of this wax figure to the familiar portraits and pictures of the inventor that the visitor unconsciously stops in reverence before going nearer. The table in the room is the one from the study of Ericsson, and nearby is the old-fashioned "hair-cushion" piano stool which was used by the inventor in place of a chair.

Ericsson had two tables in his study—one at which he worked on his plans and drawings; the other was used as a bed and with the block of wood as a pillow.

The walls of the "John Ericsson" room are hung with pictures of the naval officers who commanded his first armoured, and there is also shown the engraved resolutions passed by the New York State General Assembly March 13, 1862, commending Ericsson and the naval officers of the Monitor for their work.

WONDERFUL UNDERGROUND VILLAGE

Deep in the salt mines of the hamlet of Villiczka, in Austrian Poland, some 11 miles from Cracow, lies a veritable underground village which dates way back to the days when slaves first opened these mines in 1334. It is a busy subterranean human hive, all the busier in contrast with the sleepy hamlet above. In fact, all the life of the settlement is concentrated below ground. The air is clean and the temperature that of a warm spring day. The center of the mine is situated in a sort of crater, which forms a railway station. Here all the railway lines which intersect this huge mine meet. Men and women go above ground to do their marketing, and meet in this court on their return to gossip and compare their bargains. Children play about in the shade of the grottoes and sail boats in the gutters, running with salt water. These gutters were made hundreds of years ago to get rid of the moisture which runs from the upper floors of the mine, and lead down to the very bottom, forming a huge salt lake, the water of which is gradually pumped off and distilled to obtain salt. So different and expensive is it to light up the whole mine that visitors must make up a party of at least 30 and pay various sums according to their number. No less than 260 steps lead down to the second floor of the mine, just over the salt lake, and it is there that the chapel of St. Anthony stands.—Leslie's Weekly.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

It is a hopeful sign that lawyers are joining with laymen in the demand that is fast becoming insistent for a reform in legal procedure. The folly and injustice of the present methods are too well known to need any setting forth, but unfortunately the lawyer claims that the revision of the code will accomplish what is needed, while the layman well knows that this is only half the truth. The idea of protecting the innocent has been carried to such an excess that it is becoming increasingly difficult to convict the guilty. The thousands of forms which merely obstruct justice in the trial courts are supplemented by endless technicalities in the appellate courts, until reversals upon the most puerile grounds have become so common that they would be ludicrous were they not so sad in their far-reaching effects.—St. Louis Times.

THE REGULAR ARMY.

The part of the regular army in the civil war has yet to be fully written. It furnished nearly all the army and corps commanders of the volunteer army, most of the general and a large part of the field officers. It gave the force which protected the capital before Sumter was fired upon. It guarded the retreat at Bull Run, and had the regular army wisely expanded by adding new men at the opening of the civil war to the small force of 10,000 men that route would probably never have occurred. At Gettysburg it did its full share, particularly in its splendid artillery, and it is the worst criticism of General McClellan's handling of Antietam that he did not launch on the retreating foe the unshaken division of regulars under Gen. Fitz-John Porter.—Philadelphia Press.

MENTAL LIMITATIONS.

"Your Honor," said the arrested chauffeur, "I tried to warn the man, but the horn would not work."

"Then why did you not slacken speed rather than run him down?"

A light seemed to dawn upon the prisoner.

"Geel!" he said, "that's one on me. I never thought of that!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

KAIMUKI CONVENT IS NEARLY COMPLETED

The handsome $50,000 convent of the Sisters of the Sacred Hearts, at Kaimuki, is approaching the finishing stages and will be in readiness by September when the fall term opens. The big school, which is of handsome design and finish and topped with a cross-surmounted cupola, will be a boarding school. The down-town convent, adjoining the Roman Catholic Cathedral, will be used in future as a day school. Some of the old frame buildings within the convent walls will be torn down and the sisters will live in the quarters to be vacated by the boarding department.

Plans are also under way for a renovation of the old cathedral building, the woodwork in the galleries being reported as badly worm eaten. The entire gallery section will be removed, when the renovation starts, and instead of the galleries in future running down the sides of the building, there will only be a gallery which will include the organ and choir loft and room directly in front for a number of worshippers. This will give better ventilation for the body of the church. It is also planned to place a vestibule along the entire front of the cathedral on Fort street, so that the interior of the church will not be exposed to the direct gaze of passers-by.

MEDICINES MADE FROM ROOTS AND HERBS.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon medicines made from the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that standard remedy which is made from roots and herbs for woman's ills, had its origin in this way. For thirty years it has been redeeming its promises written on the label of every bottle by curing thousands of women of feminine ills. It's a good, honest medicine.
